Capacity Building Brant Opportunities

Capacity Building: The planned development of increase in knowledge through continuous professional learning opportunities.

Brant Learn ECE – Online Learning

Brant Learn is a made in Brant, online training option. Educators can participate in continuous professional learning in the comfort of their own home, at their own pace or even during lunch breaks!

Courses are developed by the EarlyON Child and Family Centre-Bell Lane, Lansdowne Children’s Centre, and community guest agencies.

Why should I register for Brant Learn for the ECE?

- Join other ECE’s in Brant that have self-registered for free online learning opportunities.
- Convenient. Access anywhere, anytime, on any device. Take online learning at lunch time, at home, after the kids are in bed...at your leisure and on your own schedule.
- Saves time and money. Learn at your own pace.
- Take the Brant Learn for the ECE (BLECE) Training Participant Tool before you begin to help you navigate through Brant Learn. If something is not clear, connect with an instructor by calling 519-759-3833.
- Get connected! Go to www.earlyonbrantfordbrant.ca and see what is required to join or log into <https://blece.desire2learn.com>

Capacity Building Brant Opportunities

These Capacity Building Opportunities, available to staff in Early Learning and Child Care programs in the City of Brantford and County of Brant, are made possible due to the generous funding provided by City of Brantford Children Services and Early Years Programs. Other interested parties may call 519-759-3833 to book fee-based training opportunities.

How Does Learning Happen? Educator Series

Register your staff team for this Educator Series.

This training supports staff in implementing the How Does Learning Happen? pedagogy. Over this eight week course, there will be four in-class sessions and four visits to your centre. Thank you to the City of Brantford for their support through the Capacity Building Fund to provide this series. Call the centre to learn about the financial supports and eligibility to take this training.

Topics include:

1. The View of the Child
2. Play Based Learning and Relationships
3. Inspiring Space and Environment
4. Invitations and Provocations

This series is geared to Educators working within the licensed child care community of Brantford and the County of Brant. Centres must register as a whole unit with 80% attendance required. To register your centre please call 519-759-3833.

If your centre has not participated in How Does Learning Happen, please contact EarlyON Child and Family Centre-Bell Lane at 519-759-3833.

Triple P for the ECE Fast-track

Triple P for the ECE is an evidence-based intensive training to support Early Learning and Child Care Centres in Brantford-Brant. The program has been tailored to support the Educators in the child care setting. Feedback from the early learning and child care centres who have participated has been very positive.

Topics for this program include:

- Teaching Positive Behaviours (FREE Triple P participant workbook handed out in the first week)
- Promoting Children's Development
- Managing Misbehaviour
- Planning Ahead
- Personal Consultations (facilitators visit the centre for specific teacher/child observations and practical implementation)
- Classroom strategies in support of the group and the individual child

Benefits for the Classroom Teacher include:

- Opportunities for a shared vision and common language among parents and fellow teachers at the centre
- Supporting program development and planning
- Tracking sheets to support recognition and patterns of behaviour
- Supporting the development of individual behaviour plans
- Providing staff with a framework to approach behaviour preventively

If your centre has not participated in the Triple P for the ECE program in the past or you are new to the centre staff and want to participate call 519-759-3-33 to register.

Supporting Schema Play in ALL Classroom Environment Series

Presented by EarlyON Child and Family Staff

Wednesdays, January 16 and 30 from 6:15 to 7:45 pm

Please register by Wednesday, January 9

Schemas are patterns of repeated behaviours in children's play. This workshop series supports all classroom environments and philosophies. Trajectory, rotation, enclosure, positioning, connecting, transporting, transformation, positioning, orientation and enveloping are examples of schemas. Join us to learn more about schemas in children's play and learning. All participants will receive a workshop binder of materials plus a reflection tool to use with your observations.

Week 1: Wednesday, January 16: Workshop will focus on the various types of schemas, their importance and how they support all classrooms styles and ages of children.

Week 2: Week of January 21-25 (Centre classroom supports) Using the reflection tool provided, you will observe children at play, document your observations and bring the back to group to discuss on week 3.

Week 3: Wednesday, January 30: This hands-on activity-based workshop will focus on your reflections and activities to support the various schemas and children's needs.

Fostering Brant's Growth in Early Learning: Community of Practice

Presented by EarlyON Child and Family Staff

Tuesday, February 12 from 6:15-7:45 pm

Please register by Tuesday, February 5

A "Community of Practice" offers our Early Learning and Child Care professionals a forum for professional learning with our peers to share ideas and best practices which in turn will benefit the Child Care profession, families and children that we support.

During this session we are requesting that all participants from child care centres bring their Fostering Brant's Growth Binder to share during this interactive networking session. This will allow participants to share ideas for personal and professional growth in order to gain new ideas for their classrooms while learning from each other. This Fostering Brant's Growth workshop format has proven to be a powerful networking opportunity with supervisors in the past and so we are now inviting front-line staff to share in the experience. Join us as we move along into 2019 with new energy!

The Environment as the Third Teacher....a Virtual Makeover!

Presented by EarlyON Child and Family Bell Lane Staff

Thursdays, February 7 and 21 from 6:15-7:45 pm

Please register by Thursday, January 31

Week 1: Thursday, February 7: This workshop will look at principles and strategies to support every classroom environment with the focus on creating the Environment as the Third Teacher to support inquiry play-based learning.

Week 2: Thursday, February 21: During this workshop all participants are asked to bring in before and after photos of their classroom environments. This innovative workshop will focus on new ideas to inspire changes in the environment.

Supervisor's Leadership Series

The EarlyON Child and Family team is excited to be offering a new Leadership Series for Centre Supervisor's in Brant. Topics have been chosen based on input from Leaders in Brant. This monthly series will focus on a variety of topics that will provide guidance and pertinent information current to the Early Learning and Child Care field. Each session will be scheduled from 11:30-2:00 pm during the new time slot for the Supervisor's network. A catered lunch will be provided and the session will be facilitated during a lunch-and-learn format at the EarlyON Child and Family Centre at 30 Bell Lane Brantford.

Wednesday, January 16 from 11:30-2:00 pm

If we believe in children's intelligence, it changes us: Documenting Learning of Children and Educators

Presented by Special Guest Speaker Professor Karyn Callaghan, Ontario Reggio Association

Our Ministry of Education is inviting us to think deeply and engage in rich discussion about our view of the child, teaching and learning, and to reflect on the impact of these views on every decision we make in classrooms. In this session, examples of pedagogical documentation will reveal the richness of children's thinking in a classroom where the environment is recognized as a teacher, where relationships are foregrounded, where everyone is a researcher, a learner and a teacher.

Wednesday, February 20 from 11:30-2:00 pm

Invitations and Provocations

Presented by Special Guest Presenter Diane Kashin, Consultant/Professor at Ryerson University

Children learn best when they are actively engaged with materials that are open-ended. Early Childhood Educators can support children's engagement and expression by providing invitations and provocations with the intent to promote learning and development. Participants will have opportunities to learn about invitations and provocations while engaging with materials themselves, while considering their own role to scaffold development, plus how to encourage children's ideas and opportunities to work with each other.

Wednesday, March 20 from 11:30-2:00 pm

Presented by EarlyON Child and Family Staff

Reflecting on the information shared at the previous two Leadership Series sessions, supervisors will have the opportunity to discuss ideas moving forward. The goal is to put the knowledge and insight into practice in order to understand how this can evolve to support their programs and align them with How Does Learning Happen? pedagogy. As well, we will be introducing to you an exciting new project from the Centre of Excellence. This will help us on our journey throughout the year to remain current and build capacity within your own centre.
